Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 09 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very cold with snow showers and brisk easterly winds.

Today:
Remaining very cold with occasional snow showers, but some bright spells in-between. Icy stretches remain possible with bitterly cold, fresh easterly winds - strongest near coasts. Accumulations of snow may give further disruption with drifting snow. Maximum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Tonight:
Most parts will continue to see snow showers at times, especially across Norfolk, with drier conditions further south. Some clear spells. Brisk northeasterly winds will remain strong near coasts. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Wednesday:
Snow showers continuing through Wednesday probably turning lighter and less frequent towards evening. Some bright or sunny spells. Northeasterly winds will be a little less strong. Feeling very cold. Maximum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Thursday bright and mostly dry with some sunshine. Friday and Saturday may be cloudier but probably remaining dry. Very cold throughout with frost persisting and fresh to strong southeasterly winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.